Extension to Offices - Enderby Road, Whetstone

As part of ongoing project works with a developer / contractor client brp architects were invited to design a new entrance building to link with their existing head offices.

Specifically the brief was to create a formal reception area that was contemporary and bespoke in appearance. Previously the reception had not been a purposefully designed space within the original building and therefore was considered to compromise the perceived impression of the company for visitors and staff alike.

The new fully glazed solution provided a focal point entrance to main offices, which was light, airy and spacious. Together with the re-modelling of existing external works and associated landscaping areas this small-scale installation has made a huge impact upon the quality of the original space.

As part of the scheme dedicated disabled parking spaces and level thresholds were also included to improve the access arrangements.
