This new-build four GP surgery built in the shadow of the Cotswold escarpment incorporates many innovative uses of otherwise traditional materials to the locality.

Materials used include natural Cotswold stone, horizontal timber cedar boarding, high performance through-coloured render and standing seam welded stainless steel roof that weathers down quickly to resemble traditional leadwork.

The materials all provide cladding to a loadbearing steel and timber inner frame offering endless flexibility and adaptation possibilities for the future.

brp are currently designing a 350sqm extension to the building.
